VREELAND AAN DE VECHT SINCE 1250

Restaurant Hendrik originated in Vreeland, a picturesque village on the Vecht River, just a 20-minute drive from Amsterdam. Restaurant Hendrik grew out of a traditional pancake house in Vreeland that dates back to 1967.

Hendrik van Vianden played a significant role in Vreeland's history. He was Bishop of Utrecht and granted Vreeland city rights in 1265. Here, he built Vredelant Castle as a border fortress between Utrecht and Holland. Vredelant Castle was a strategic fortress that was besieged several times by, among others, Gijsbregt van Amstel in the battle against Floris V. The legacy of Hendrik van Vianden lives on in our restaurants in Vreeland and Amsterdam.
