VREELAND AAN DE VECHT SINCE 1250

Hendrik van Vianden played an important role in the history of Vreeland. Hendrik was cathedral provost of Cologne and from 1249 to 1267 bishop of Utrecht. Hendrik granted city rights to Vreeland in 1265. Here he built the castle Vredelant as a border fortress between Utrecht and Holland. Vredelant Castle was a strategic castle which was besieged several times by Gijsbrecht van Amstel in the feud against Floris V. Today, the archaeological monument of Castle Vredelant lies beneath the grass of the "Sperwerveld" in Vreeland. The legacy of Hendrik van Vianden lives on in our restaurant.
